Autrefois, on entreposait le cidre dans ces grands tonneaux.
Maintenant ils sont vides, mais ils sentent toujours bon le jus de pomme.
Toc, toc, toc... Y a-t-il quelqu'un là-dedans ?
Il fait noir comme dans un four.

Soudain, quatre... cinq... six petites choses
grises bondissent hors du tonneau.
– Hiiiiii... !!! des souris !
Qui sait depuis quand elles habitent cette barrique ! Bravo, Finaud, tu les as débusquées !

Lundi matin : dans la cour de l'école,
les conversations sont animées.

– Ce week-end, on a fait une énorme promenade à vélo.

Playful storm: I love to see nature, how it plays!

tree, she could see a mother
bird feeding her young.
She called softly to Mark to come and look.

Schultz is remembered the strange way he had found what he was at the village. "Listen, Nelson, I was talking to old Tim and he told me that he had heard there was a school for dogs! Apparently you can learn to be a guard-dog or a hunting-dog or a guide dog. How does it if you could learn to be a crime dog and chase down wrongdoers?" Nelson was excited! Schultz for dogs!

Ouf ! c'est terminé.
Voici que se dresse la silhouette
moyenâgeuse du château.
Et quel château !
